

Meet Eight Top 'AP' Writers Whose Korean War Reports Appear in The Telegraph

TOM F. LAMBERT finds service in the Pacific area nothing new. He served in the Navy from 1942 to 1945, much of the time as a public relations officer in the Pacific.

At the end of the war he joined the AP at San Francisco and soon went to Tokyo. For a time he was covering the war beat there.

WILLIAM J. JORDEN has been reporting the Far Eastern situation from his vantage point in Tokyo since Dec. 8, 1948.

A native of Bridgeport, Conn., Jorden graduated from Yale and Columbia Universities. He once taught Japanese at Yale.

After working for newspapers in Massachusetts and New York he joined The Associated Press and was assigned to Tokyo.

HAL BOYLE in the last war received a Pulitzer prize for his reporting on the African and European campaigns he established himself as a brilliant war reporter as well as columnist.

Afterwards he continued his daily column for The Associated Press, with the common man in America as his subject, instead of G. I. Joe. He dubbed himself the "poor man's philosopher," but worked as a reporter in Oklahoma City, then became news director for a Colorado radio station.

WILLIAM R. MOORE knows the Korean terrain, customs and people. As an Army major he served with the U. S. Military government in Korea until October, 1946. He returned from military leave to the New York AP bureau but was assigned to Korea in March, 1948.

Born in Nowata, Okla., he was graduated from the University of Oklahoma, did on-the-spot reporting occasionally in county jail but she is out on a $5,000 bond.

DON E. HUTH has covered the Far East since 1945. He has been at New Delhi, Calcutta and Manila and now Tokyo.

Born in Green Bay, Wis., Huth began his newspaper career at the age of 10 by helping a brother deliver papers. After being graduated from the University of Wisconsin he worked on a number of Wisconsin dailies. He joined the Associated Press at Omaha in September, 1943.

Huth accompanied the late Wendell Willkie on his five-day campaign tour in 1944.

MILTON MARMOR in his 20 years as a newspaperman has had exclusive interviews with Albert Einstein, Mrs. Thomas Edison and J. Robert Oppenheimer.

A keen student of international politics ever since he was graduated from Rutgers and studied law at Columbia University and New Jersey Law School, Marmor also is a sports expert. He helped cover the Olympic games in London in 1948.

During World War II, Marmor was a staff sergeant with the Army Air Forces.

WENDELL S. (LEIF) ERICKSON is a veteran of AP's Pacific news staff where he covered the war from Guadalcanal to the Japanese defeat.

Shortly after V-J Day he was named chief of bureau for the southeast Asia area with headquarters in Singapore. More recently he has been bureau chief in Honolulu.

A native of Warren, Minn., Erickson worked on newspapers in western states before entering AP service at Denver in 1937.

RELMAN (PAT) MORIN, an Associated Press general executive, left his desk in New York for front line work in the Far East again. One-time Tokyo bureau chief, Morin was captured by the Japanese in Indo-China at the outbreak of the last war. He was interned for seven months before being exchanged.

After a brief rest Morin went to the opposite side of the world where he covered the European, African and Italian fronts. Later he was bureau chief in Paris, and remained abroad until 1947.

Public Learns Food Supplies Plentiful; Buying Slows Down

Hoarders Will Learn Efforts Are for Nought

Government Report To Show Abundance

Washington, July 21—(AP)—Disturbed by increases in prices and evidence of consumer hoarding, the government is working on a report to convince the public that it need not fear food shortages.

The report, being drafted by the Agriculture Department, will be made public Saturday night.

Buying Slows Down

Repeated assurances by President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan that food supplies are plentiful were said by officials to have slowed down, but not stopped, the heavy consumer buying of sugar, canned goods and other non-perishable foods that started with the Korean war.

Officials hoped that a detailed report, giving statistical information on supplies and production prospects of various major food items, would serve as a clincher to their argument that there is no justification for hoarding or for price increases.

The report is expected to say that, on the basis of present conditions, there is no valid reason for a higher general level of food prices during the next six months.

Meat To Be Cheaper

Prices of some foods, it will say, should go down in the fall particularly meats. Large farm production, plus big cold-storage stocks, should maintain supplies of eggs and poultry at high levels, with prices advancing only slightly from summer quotations.

It will point out that supplies of wheat for flour and bakery products are 30 to 40 per cent above anticipated market demands for the grain.

It is expected to report that milk production is at near record levels, with a part of the supply being diverted into government surplus stocks in the form of butter, cheese

GENERAL MISSING—An army spokesman announced that Major General William F. Dean (above), commander of the U. S. 24th Division in Korea, has been officially reported missing in action.

Four Criminal Cases Before Jury Session

Twenty-three members of the April grand jury went into session today to determine if there's enough evidence to bring four criminal cases involving five persons to trial.

The grand jury was recalled because of a state law requiring that persons arrested be given a trial in four months. Since one of the arrests occurred in May, the four-month limit would have expired if Lee county authorities had waited until the next grand jury convened Sept. 18.

Thompson Case Up

Cases going before the grand jury presumably include the Clayton Thompsons, Franklin Grove, charged with four break-ins. He's a 17-year-old private in the air force. His wife is 19. Thompson is being held in county jail but she is out on a $5,000 bond.

Fred Pieper, a Dixon mechanic, 1902 W. First street, has been charged with taking indecent liberties with a minor. He's being held under a $2,000 bond.

Harold Jeter, 15, Nelson, is charged with two Nelson burglaries. He's out on a $2,000 bond.

Arlos Shoemaker, 24, Lewiston, Idaho, is charged with forgery in connection with a bum check passed at the Boynton-Richards Clothing store.

Amboyman Named Foreman

Charles Whitebread, Amboy, is foreman of the grand jury. Three Dixonites, Eleanor Jane Wilson, 912 Cooper, Jane Wickey, and William Miller, are among the 23 jurors.

Skullduggery Of Some Sort Cooking, Fear

Or Is Greece Next Target of Russia?

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Red skullduggery of some sort is at work in the always mysterious and fiery Balkans.

It is anybody's guess whether this presages armed conflict in that cockpit of southeastern Europe or is merely a war of nerves. However, it seems to be working up to a climax rapidly, and it has the United Nations and the foreign offices of the democracies anxiously burning midnight oil.

Aimed at Tito?

For weeks now eastern Europe has been seething with reports of provocative incidents. These have been aimed mostly at Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia.

One of the most arresting of this grim procession of reports came out of Turkey only a few days ago. This was that there was growing Russianization of Bulgarian military forces and that there were increasing troop movements in the Macedonian front.

This thought fits in with the current warning from the United Nations Balkan committee, reporting from Switzerland, that the Russian-led Cominform may be planning an attack on Greece.

What would be the significance of such an operation?

For one thing it would create another great conflagration for the

Shore Acres May Become Part of City

If the owners of 25 lots in Shore Acres have their way, Dixon's city limits will be stretched to include all of Assistant Supervisor George F. Prescott's subdivision.

It's the area just east of Institute boulevard and north of Assembly Park.

To Petition Court

The 25-lot owners met at Rainbow Inn Wednesday night and voted unanimously to incorporate the area into the city. The next move will be a petition to county court, with the request then going to the city council.

If the area is taken in, it means Shore Acres will have water and sewerage facilities come in, although both will be paid for on a special assessment basis.

Prescott, who has spent 28 years in the oil business and another 25 years in the drug field, said the entire area may receive FHA approval.

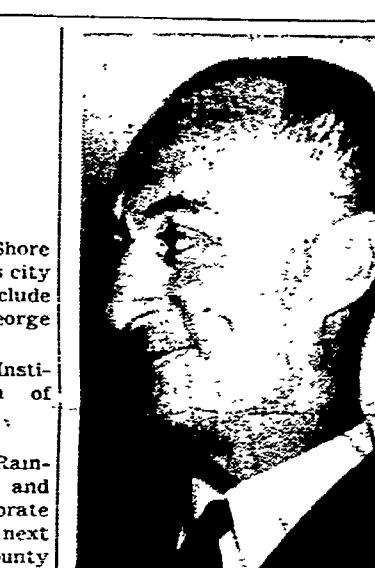

If it does, Prescott told The Telegraph, it means that those who own lots in the area will be able to finance their homes through the government agency.

Can Get U. S. Funds

Now a realtor, Prescott said the federal program would allow builders to borrow up to 50 per cent of the cost of their homes, with 20 years to repay the loan.

Fifty-foot roads in Shore Acres already have been graded and gravelled.

The owners include teachers, state highway department employees, and workers from INU and Raynor's Manufacturing company.

CONVOY COMMANDER—Rear Adm. James Henry Doyle, above, commanded the Navy convoy which put the First Cavalry Division safely ashore at Pohang, Korea. A native of Astoria, Long Island, N. Y., Doyle is a Navy veteran of both world wars.

Three Youths Drown in Rock River, Sterling

Firemen and police today dragged Rock river for the bodies of three fishermen who drowned Thursday night when their boat fell apart.

The victims, all from Sterling and all in their early twenties, were John True, Paul Starck and Ike Foy.

Alexon Remington, assistant chief of the Sterling fire department, is directing the operation. Remington has pulled 80 bodies from Rock river since 1931.

Spotts Rescued

A fourth member of the fatal fishing party, Lester Spotts, 31, Sterling, was rescued by Charles Linsley. Linsley was staying in a cabin about three miles below the spot where the boat broke up.

Police Chief Edward Onda said Spotts told him the outboard motor and the back end of the boat fell off about three miles west of Sterling.

About 10:30 this morning, drags found a pair of overalls pants belonging to True. The pants were turned inside out but the contents were still in the pockets.

Tried to Swim?

True may have gotten his pants off before a vain attempt to swim to shore.

Morrison boy scouts joined the searching party, directing traffic and serving coffee to those who looked for the missing trio during the night.

Hartman Buys Specs to Help Ventler's Eyes

A pair of glasses was offered today as a way to bring the rent control issue into a little sharper focus.

The donor was Horace W. Hartman, deputy sheriff, political handyman, and circulator of a petition asking the city council to kick out rent controls.

The recipient was Otto Ventler, of Otto's Tap, 319 W. First street, who first signed Hartman's petition and then filed disclaimer, saying:

"I thought Hartman was planning for office again. He's always running for office. I'm not against rent controls. I don't have my glasses on."

Hartman retaliated today with the "specs," presenting them to Ventler.

General Electric's Net Profit, 6 Months Period 77 Millions!!

Schenectady, N. Y., July 21—(AP)—The General Electric company's net profit for the first six months of this year soared to $77,445,000, a 65 per cent boost over the same 1949 period, and a new record for a first half-year.

Announcing this last night, GE President Charles E. Wilson said the company and its consolidated affiliates had a record net sales of $541,000,000 from Jan. 1 through June 30 this year. The total topped by 10 per cent the previous all-time high of $501,757,000 set in the corresponding 1949 period.

GE's old profit mark for the first six months of a year was $34,602,000 in 1945.

Guatemalans Fight Over Election Ideas

Guatemala, Guatemala, July 21—(AP)—Disagreement over Guatemala's coming presidential election had yesterday led to a large-scale street fight in which at least 10 persons were injured and 200 arrested.

The fight broke out in the city center where a group of students and workers were gathered.

The students were protesting against the government's plan to hold a new election in 1954, instead of the 1950 election scheduled by the constitution.

The workers were protesting against the government's plan to hold a new election in 1954, instead of the 1950 election scheduled by the constitution.

Gehant Rejects Drunken Driver's Higher Fine Plan

Walter Hackbart, 41, Sterling, offered to pay a higher fine to keep his driver's license today after he pleaded guilty to drunken driving.

But State's Attorney M. C. Pires and County Judge George W. Gehant rejected the bid. Hackbart drew the usual penalty—a $100 fine and the loss of his license for a year.

He was arrested Thursday afternoon by State Patrolman Gus W. Grandgeorge on alternate 30 near Prairieville.

Bank Overpays Check By a Mere $900,000!

Kansas City, Mo., July 21—(AP)—Pat Hickey, 31, received a check for $500,650 in payment for a $500,000 bill.

He called the bank and said he would return the check today. An official said the $500,650 mistake was due to failure of a check-writing machine.

Republicans Gather Here For Meeting

Republicans from seven northern Illinois counties will converge on Dixon next Wednesday, July 26 for a "basic instruction" program on politics.

Arranged by Stanley Guyer of Rockford, chairman of the Republicans in this congressional district, the local arrangements are being handled by Henry C. Warner, Chairman of the Lee County Republican committee.

Mr. Warner announced today that the meetings will be held at the Elks Club, with a dinner in the evening at which approximately 150 Republicans will attend.

A feature of the meetings will be instructional talks by Mrs. John Thomas, Illinois State Chairwoman, and Sen. Wallace Thompson.

Their appearance in Dixon is one of many in the state during a three weeks tour. A trio of representatives from Republican National Headquarters will also attend and give talks on various aspects of campaigning. Instructional talks will be given to each delegation attending the meetings.

A Horse on Him?

Portland, Ore., July 21—(AP)—William O. Douglas, associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court who was seriously injured by a horse last year, is in a hospital here.

This time a horse kicked him on the shin at his Walden mountain cabin. The injury did not respond to home treatment.

Last year the horse-downer, mounted on a long justice, was in a hospital for weeks after a horse rolled on him.

Detain Five Possible Pacifists at Ellis

New York, July 21—(AP)—Five Jehovah's Witnesses from Great Britain were detained yesterday at Ellis Island to determine if they advocated "extreme pacifism."

McGregory delayed sentence pending an investigation by the federal probation office. The judge indicated that the sentence may be handed down in September.

Gold, the first American formally to admit delivering atomic secrets to Russia, pleaded guilty yesterday to the general charge of conspiracy to violate the federal espionage act and to the 11 specific charges of spy acts.

Arrested here May 25, Gold was, pending his sentence.

Gold Pleads Guilty to Spy Charges; Sentencing Delayed

Philadelphia, July 21—(AP)—Harry Gold, 39-year-old former Philadelphia research chemist, asked for his trial on today after pleading guilty to atomic espionage on behalf of Soviet Russia.

U. S. District Judge James P. McGarvey delayed sentence pending an investigation by the federal probation office. The judge indicated that the sentence may be handed down in September.

Gold, the first American formally to admit delivering atomic secrets to Russia, pleaded guilty yesterday to the general charge of conspiracy to violate the federal espionage act and to the 11 specific charges of spy acts.

London, July 21—(AP)—Ten British Labor leaders who visited America debunked today the idea that Americans work harder than Britons.

"Except in a few isolated cases," they reported, they found no evidence to support the theory, which had been put out by a few of the several British management-labor missions which have visited the United States in the last year.

WOULD DRAFT VETS

Washington, July 21—(AP)—The Air Force, if its volunteers are insufficient, may ask congress for authority to draft veterans of the last war.

This was the word Col. Harold Parks of the Air Force gave the house armed services committee today.

Col. Parks said the Air Force feels it will be able to meet its manpower needs through volunteers and reserves.

He added, however, that if these methods fail to provide enough men the Air Force would like the right to recall veterans through the draft.

Hershey Says Deferrals of Men Dangerous

Cincinnati, July 21—(AP)—The director of Selective Service said the United States has got to find "7,000,000 men of critical skill and the capacity to fight."

Gen. Lewis B. Hershey warned against urging draft boards to defer men because of their skills, claiming "if we don't find them (the 7,000,000 men), you won't have any industry anyway."

Hershey spoke at a luncheon here yesterday.

He explained there are 10,000,000 men between 18 and 27 and that of these 7,000,000 are classified, with 1,200,000 classified 1-A.

He added that 1,200,000 men have not been classified because they are 18-year-olds, 2,700,000 are veterans, 742,000 have dependents, 536,000 are 4-F (failing to meet armed service standards), 120,000 are in farming and 137,000 are in the reserves.

CALL GUARD UNITS
Washington, July 21—(AP)—The Army announced today it is calling "non-divisional" units of both the National Guard and reserves to active duty.

The announcement said that the Army does not contemplate at this time calling units the size of a division.

The brief announcement said: "The department of the Army is in the process of progressively calling non-divisional elements of both National Guard and reserves to active duty as the need arises and facilities for their reception and training can be provided."

"For the immediate present it is not contemplated that units the size of a division will be called. Units will be alerted approximately 30 days prior to movement so as to give members time to arrange their personal affairs."

"In the meantime the Army is asking for immediate voluntary active service of individual officers and men in certain grades and skills."

"These individuals will be given up to 30 days to report."

The Army declined to disclose the number of men involved.

Tokyo, Saturday, July 22—(AP)—The battered U. S. 24th division was reported holding high ground southeast of burning Taejeon today, blocking the North Korean Red army's advance.

Boyle in Tokyo Says Korean Conflict Is 'Commuters' War'

By HAL BOYLE

TOKYO—(AP)—The Korean war somehow seems almost as far away from Tokyo as it does from New York or Washington.

This is odd considering that a jet plane can fly from here to the warfront in about the time it takes a man to smoke a 10-cent cigar.

But an air of solid confidence has replaced the tension that prevailed in the first weeks of fighting. There is probably less nervousness here than in the Pentagon.

The turning point was the landing of a fresh American division on the eastern Korean coast above the vital port of Pusan. There is a feeling that the United Nations forces now can not only hold a bridgehead—they may even shortly undertake offensive action of at least limited nature.

There even is a hope that the North Koreans—faced by powerful ground troops and lashed by superior air and sea forces—may figure they have lost initiative and begin a slow withdrawal back beyond the shelter of the 38th parallel.

It is an old and unreal war in many respects. It is quite possible for a soldier to be wounded in Korea before lunch and to eat dinner that same night in a first class army hospital in Japan, assured of finest medical care.

"Commuters' War"

Some officers call it "a commuters' war." They can return from missions over Korea in time to join their wives and friends in a game of Canasta. But of course they don't all get back to that hospital or that Canasta game. It is still a war.

It has hit home particularly hard among sad eyed American evacuees from Korea, who had to flee and leave behind all personal belongings except those they could carry.

Many lost their passports and it has been a tremendous task for American State Department officials to check their identity, issue new credentials and help arrange passage home.

Most rueful evacuee I met was one who said he had to abandon $7,000 worth of household goods in Seoul—and that didn't include cost of his swimming pool.

"That sounds like a lot of money," he said. "But did you ever figure out what it costs to clothe a family and furnish a house—from safety pins to a refrigerator? What I want to know is how and when I am going to get that $7,000 back? It took four years to settle most of the claims from the last war."

Talk Muster Of Reserve State Guard

Chicago, July 21—(AP)—Plans for possible mustering of a reserve militia in the event the Illinois National Guard is called up for active service were considered yesterday by Governor Stevenson's military advisory board.

The board's chairman, Lt. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, retired, said the group discussed "the advisability of immediate organization of a reserve force to be placed at the governor's disposal in the event the guard leaves the state."

Gen. Lawton said recommendations for action in such eventualities were adopted unanimously and will be presented to the governor today. He declined to give details of the recommendations.

Lt. Gen. Charles C. Haffner, Jr., retired, said the state committee on civil defense will meet next week to map defense plans for the state. Appointment of a state civil defense director also will be considered at the meeting, Gen. Haffner said.

Gen. Haffner, chairman of the committee, is interim coordinator of civil defense for Illinois.

Mangled Body of Woman Is Found On Right-of-Way

Highwood, Ill., July 20—(AP)—The mangled body of Mrs. Ellen Flannigan, 66, wife of a Highwood real estate man, was found today on a rain-soaked North Western railroad embankment in Highwood.

Police theorized she had been hit by a train between midnight and 5 a.m. Her husband, John, had reported her missing since she left their home about 10 o'clock last night.

Flannigan told police his wife had been in ill health for some time and returned home a month ago after a six-months stay in a Winnetka, Ill., rest home.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Quality, Not Quantity to Win War

American troops in Korea are not battle-hardened veterans. They're green soldiers struggling against great numerical odds with insufficient and ineffective weapons.

These men were garrison troops in occupied Japan, not even thoroughly trained for combat. Despite these extreme handicaps, they are inflicting heavy losses on the enemy in an often valiant rear guard action.

The hard truth is, however, that the Korean war imposed such disadvantages upon them because the U. S. army is almost totally lacking in combat effectiveness fit for 1950 warfare. Taking assurances from comfortable prophecies that Russia couldn't fight a war until at least 1952, we at home shrugged off the task of building a real defense.

There's another unpleasant fact we must digest: even if we had equal numbers and equal equipment, that would be no guarantee of victory.

Writing in the Saturday Evening Post, Hanson Baldwin, New York Times military expert, declares we won World War II not because we had the best soldiers in the world but because, with our allies and our huge industrial output, we mounted the biggest military machine. Baldwin says:

"Given equal armaments and equal numbers, the enemy usually won. Our victories were fashioned out of overwhelming superiority in weight of metal and in numbers."

To be sure, he adds, we had some crack fighting units, some good leaders and some fine equipment. On the sea and in the air, we gained a few key triumphs over stronger enemy forces. But generally, says Baldwin, our land forces didn't measure up in basic fighting quality.

"Captured enemy intelligence documents repeatedly mention the lack of aggressiveness of the American infantry," he writes. "Our own training program constantly tried to step up the battlefield initiative of our troops."

Baldwin also asserts that our generalship, though usually good, seldom merited the label "best."

And he runs through a long catalogue of weapons to show we frequently fell short of the enemy and our allies in the quality of our arms. Moreover, he insists, we still lag in such vital categories as tanks, tactical aircraft, artillery rockets, anti-aircraft and self-propelled guns, and new aircraft carriers.

But against all the deficiencies of men and equipment, Baldwin balances these military virtues: "Intelligence and initiative were American strong points. . . . In general education, mechanical aptitude, technical skills and factory output, we were greatly superior.

Too, he says, we had SOME of the best equipment in every field, generally where commercial use aided technical advances. And in construction, engineering and supply, "our services wrought minor miracles."

These virtues suggest why our soldiers may not be the world's best. The qualities they do have are those exalted and developed by a peace-loving people. Ours is not a military civilization dedicated to the soldier, as was the case in Germany and Japan.

Furthermore, we haven't learned to dramatize our democratic freedom as a fighting cause, as Russia dramatizes fanatical Communism. And, very important, we've never had to defend our own soil the way Britain and Russia had to do in World War II.

A vast continental island far from the scene of recent wars, we had come to take our liberties and our safety for granted. It was hard for us to see the peril in a conflict waged thousands of miles from American shores. It still is. If war came to our soil, if our freedom were directly threatened, there's little doubt how we would fight. What we must realize is that with Russia grasping for power everywhere, American soil is indeed menaced by every Soviet breath of the peace. For today we are the real enemy—the only enemy with strength.

Against colossal Russia, numbers and material substance would not necessarily be on our side. To be ready for such an adversary, we must have both quality and quantity in men and arms. The higher virtues of a peace-loving people are not enough in this crisis.

Watch Out for Phony Petition

A million Americans in 40 states have signed their names to a "world peace" petition specifically aimed at outlawing atomic weapons. Probably not more than a few thousand of the signers realized that this campaign is being run by the U. S. Communist party and is Moscow-inspired.

The peace proposal was adopted last spring at a Stockholm meeting of the Partisans of Peace, a Communist-sponsored international organization. Since then it has been circulated widely in Europe, Asia and now America. Many millions of signatures have been obtained.

Secretary of State Acheson properly branded the whole effort as fraudulent and cynical. He pointed out that just before the North Koreans attacked South Korea, it was reported half the population of North Korea had signed the petition.

This proposal is still going the rounds in America. Often it bears the cloak of labor union sanction, though the nature of such sponsorship is usually quite vague.

From here on out, every American will do well if he turns away from his door the bearer of any peace petition that talks of outlawing the atom bomb, mentions Stockholm or boasts of labor sponsors. Almost certainly that proposal will be Moscow's handiwork.

Hollywood — (NEA) — Behind the screen: Claire Trevor says she won't be out to give Ida Lupino a bad time if it when Ida directs her in "Mother of a Champion."

If Claire pulls bunks of actresses stuffing out of her bed at night it will not be because she's dreaming of a knock-down-drag-out fight with Miss Director.

"I never fight with directors, male or female," Claire told me. "I do exactly what they want me to. Ida has a lot of talent and she's more alive to everything that pertains to women than anybody in the industry."

Maybe Ida can stop trembling now and pitch right in. Last I heard, she was chattering nervously over the idea of directing a regulation-sized movie queen.

Jerry Lewis and Dean Martin need a new title, fast, for their independent comedy, "At War With the Army." The Korean situation makes it the most embarrassing picture tag of the year.

The movie queens are gasping over Barbara Payton's contract with Jimmy and Bill Cagney. It gives her 50 per cent of her loan-out salary.

Date for Miriam Hopkins' divorce from foreign correspondent Ray Brock is about six months away. They've been separated for several years.

Coward to Cowhand
Whoa thar, old Paint! City-slicker doings didn't pay off at Charley Farrell's swank Toyon Bay resort and now the once-glittering by-the-ocean site has become a rootin' tootin' dude ranch.

Hollywood dolls and guys who once brought along their best Noel Coward manners are a-riding the canyons and eating from a chuck wagon at the Catalina Island Guest Ranch—new tag for Toyon Bay. Most of the cowboys on the staff belong to the Screen Actors Guild.

Julian King, who owns the vacation spot, reports that two herds of buffalo, left on the island years ago by the "Cimarron" and "Thundering Herd" troupes, are still roaming the hills.

"One herd got wind of the fact that the other received less movie money," laughs King. "Nobody can get those two herds to mix."

M-G-M's music wizard Andre Previn and Phyllis Kirk are two bright, young things about town, but they deny marriage rumors. "Nothing serious," says Previn, "but we've just decided not to see each other more than seven nights a week." . . . Height of something: Frank Sinatra singing "Nancy" with Ava Gardner in front row at London Palladium.

Ann Sheridan is blushing over Fox's tear-paper ads for "Stella." It's a comedy about two nitwits who bury a body, but the ad boys are concentrating on Ann's gams and tease lines like this: "Dellah Gave Samson a Haircut." "Stella" Gives Him the Works.

Producer Joe Pasternak and M-G-M threw a big shindig at the Mocambo for Vic Damone. When I remarked on the mob of autograph hunters in front of the nitery, Vic said: "They must be expecting Sinatra."

Crush On Coburn
Alan Nixon doesn't have to worry, but wife Marie Wilson thinks Charles Coburn is a dreamboat. Marie told me:

"Wasn't that sweet of him to say those nice things about my Lady Teazle in 'School for Scandal'! When I opened in the play he sent me flowers and a card that read: 'From an old grapefruit picker of the period.' Marie says her 'romance' with Coburn has been going on ever since she met him at Warner Brothers one day and whispered:

"Get rid of those women with you!" Coburn screamed.

Marie hops right into another play but she hopes to fall flat on her face if she's trying to prove that she's a Katharine Cornell.

She says:
"I don't have any ideas about art and I'm not out to show anybody what I can do. I'm doing plays for the fun of it."

Mickey Rooney to a pal: "I don't believe in starting kids too young in show business. Martha and I will wait until ours is at least four or five."

Bob Cummings decided the financial gamble was too great and has given up all plans to make a movie abroad with Greta Garbo and himself as the stars. Bob becomes Hollywood's busiest actor after a three-month trip to Europe.

He's doing "For Heaven's Sake" at Fox, then hops across town for three films at Columbia and three for Hal Wallis.

"I will then be without any contractual obligations," he said, "and own myself again for the first time in 15 years."

Proper Plays

Erase Guessing

By OSWALD JACOBY

"You recently wrote an article about how to guess a certain finessse," a Denver correspondent reminds me. "There is a guess in this hand, even though there is no finessse. Will you be good enough to tell us how the experts would guess this situation?"

"West opened the six of spades. East put up the king, and South won with the ace."

"When the hand was actually played, South then led a club, and East won with the ace. East returned a spade, South played low, and West won with the jack. A spade return forced out declarer's queen."

"Declarer saw that he could make three clubs, three hearts, and two spades. He needed a diamond trick for his contract. However, when he led diamonds, West took the ace of diamonds and ran the rest of the spades. This set the contract."

"If South had led diamonds instead of clubs at the second trick, he would have made his contract. If West took his ace of diamonds at once, he could establish the spades but could never regain the lead to cash them. If West refused to take the ace of diamonds, South could abandon the suit and start the clubs. With one diamond trick in, he would make his contract."

"For the life of us, we cannot see why South should lead diamonds instead of clubs. Would an expert know how to guess this right?"

I have a faint suspicion that my leg is being pulled. An expert would not need to guess at all on this hand, since the proper play eliminates all guessing.

South must refuse the first trick! When East holds the first trick with the king of spades, he can do no better than to return his remaining spade. South wins and can attack either diamonds or clubs with equally satisfactory results.

If South leads diamonds, West can take the ace of diamonds and establish his spades, but he will never regain the lead to cash them. If South tackles the clubs first, East can take the club ace, but cannot then return a spade. Any other return, of course, can do South no harm.

When the expert is forced to guess, he does a pretty good job of it. However, if he makes unnecessary guesses, he's no expert.

Abundant Living

By
E. STANLEY JONES

Luke 8:27-37; Acts 26:22-25; 1 Pet. 4:3-4, 14

AFRAID OF SANITY!

A Church of England clergyman uttered a profound thing in one of our Round Table conferences: "I am trying to live the natural way of life—the Christian way." In II Peter 2:19 we read, "promising them freedom, when they are themselves enslaved to corruption." Note that phrase—"enslaved to corruption," given over to something that is decaying. Evil is just that—it is life under the doom of decay. The Christian way is life under the bloom of development. Hence, the Christian way is the natural way.

It is true there is a false nature built up by our false living, but that false nature is not the real nature that God stamped in us at creation. That false nature which a man attempts to build up is at war with the real nature. Hence, the man who sins is at war with himself as well as with God.

The new birth comes through the surrender and abandonment of this false world of evil and the acceptance of this true world of good. The man becomes "a little child"—he is realigned to God's original purpose. When he becomes God's man, he really becomes a man.

We have become so naturalized in evil that we think the Christian way is the unnatural way. The people came and saw the demoniac, out of whom Jesus had cast the evil spirits, "clothed, and in his right mind; and they were afraid." Afraid of what?

They were afraid of sanity! We have become so accustomed to our insane ways of life that we are afraid of the real sanity of the Christian way. A man told me that he had ridden a bicycle with crooked handle bars for so long that when someone straightened them he fell off. He has become naturalized in crookedness! To us who are naturalized in this crooked and impossible order the realism of Jesus seems idealism; but it is realism so far ahead of us that to us it is idealism. In fact, it is realism.

Evil is the great illusion—it is the illusion that you can live against the design of the universe and get away with it!

O Christ, we have been afraid of the splendid sanity of Thy mind, the amazing balance of Thy life—we have been afraid of Life. And now I ask that Thou wilt help me become naturalized in the homeland of my soul—the Kingdom of God. Amen.

young divorcee in our neighborhood is making an utter fool out of my husband."

"She has used every trick in the book to gain his sympathy and enlist his help in her personal and business affairs. She often manages to head for the bus stop just as he is driving to work. She gets him to make some small repair for her—then offers him a drink, etc. But why go on—the tricks are as old as time and seemingly as endless."

"How can I make him see that she isn't the poor, helpless little thing she pretends to be, but an experienced woman who is enjoying her conquest and probably thinking what a fool I am not to see what is going on?"

You can't open his eyes, Mrs. C. Because when a man is being made a fool of by a woman it is because he is enjoying it. He doesn't want to see the woman as she is and if you try to show him what she is up to, you'll probably be accused of being a jealous wife. Furthermore, your husband would probably jump to the woman's defense—and you wouldn't like that.

ON RENT CONTROLS

To The Editor,
Evening Telegraph,
Dixon, Ill.

Dear Sir:

In your paper the other night you wrote that Mayor Hofmann wanted to hear how we felt about the rents being decontrolled. Well, a lot of us people who have to rent here in Dixon don't want our names known, otherwise our landlords might try and make it tough for us. So if you'll keep my name out of this, here's how I feel.

I believe that a lot of rents are below what they should be. But on the other hand, what if you have a tough landlord, who might go 'crazy' and raise rent sky high if controls were taken off? Would that be right? I believe some arrangements should be made to permit the renter and landlord to get together on some common ground and work out what is fair to both sides.

In Thursday's paper I see where Otto Ventler didn't know what he was signing when Horace Hartman went around with that de-control petition. I believe Mr. Ventler. Certainly a fellow in his business isn't going to run people out of his place, and most of them are renters.

Now we are at war again. Everything is going up no matter what Harry Truman or anyone else says. Just go around to your corner grocery and find out for yourself.

I say keep rent controls on until we at least know where we are going in this Korean war. If prices continue to increase, we won't only have a tough time to eat and clothe ourselves, but we're going to find it constantly harder to pay the landlord.

Some old people depend on rents for their incomes and they should be protected. I believe that the rent boards should see that they are, too. But on the other hand I believe that the number of old people who depend on rentals for a living are fewer than the landlords who would gouge the last dime out of us.

Sincerely,

A Dixon Renter

By Westbrook Pegler

He charges that Justice Jackson lacked civic courage.

New York, July 20—I wish I could interpret the remarks of Justice Robert H. Jackson at Stanford university as a plea for an even break for loyal Americans in our federal courts, but the loyal citizen seems not to have been foremost or even forward in his thoughts. Justice Jackson did deplore the mechanized clamor at trials of accused Communists which is raised by the Communists themselves and their criminal accomplices, so many of whom, he observed, are now trying to decontaminate themselves by bawling boldly at Stalin on the air and in the movies and the press. A yellow, contemptible litter of curs at best, whose greedy venality did not stop short of essential treason, these quibblers, with fear in their miserable bellies, are now imposing on the patience of their betters to explain that they only tried to interpret the enemy so that we would be on guard.

Justice Jackson doubtless referred to the long trial of the eleven Communists in New York which taxed the patience, wisdom and physical endurance of Judge Harold R. Medina. He called such demonstrations "trial by publicity" and said that, what with pickets milling and snarling on the court house steps and radio, television, newsreels and the press all raising psychological commotion, it was no longer possible to exclude from the view of jurors matter which counsel would not be allowed to offer in court. He took our press fairly to task for its obvious guilt in this evil situation, but had the fairness to admit the guilt of his own profession when he said "disorderly, obstructive, contemptuous or defiant demonstrations within the court room can only be charged to lawyers."

Not only the trial of the eleven in New York but the Bridges case in San Francisco spring to mind as examples of turmoil in the courts. With great respect for Judge Medina I still insist he contributed to the debasement of his own court by letting the heckling lawyers get away with their commotion. If George Speavin, American, walks into a police court with his hat on he commits an act of contempt. He may be excused with a warning and a scolding if he claims that he didn't realize that his hat was on his head. But if he says, "Yes, I intended to wear my hat as a show of disrespect for this court," he goes to jail as he should. But in both the actual cases which I have mentioned, the offensive conduct was flagrant, defiant and prolonged.

It went on for weeks. And the courts in these cases were far above the police court in status and dignity, although the police court should be as majestic as any. By compromising with this contempt, by submitting to conduct from some lawyers who were known to be political accomplices of the Soviet enemy, Judge Medina established the fact that a Communist has special privilege. The plea that fair but severe treatment of these persons would have caused political reactions in Communist countries has no value. Our courts should treat all persons alike and these Communists and certain other lawyers who are not shown to be Communists were shown special favor.

Justice Jackson touched another sensitive point when he observed that the appellate courts are unable to protect a defendant against false or prejudicial evidence introduced by publicity. That is a danger that exists and grows day by day as the sinister secret power of a modernized klux asserts itself in whispered smears against Americans whose worst offense has been a refusal to bow down and worship at the shrine of Roosevelt. This undoubtedly is, in the minds of some, an abuse of our constitutional rights. The purpose of this prejudice plainly is to deny political and intellectual freedom and freedom of speech. The dissenter may dissent but only at the risk of injustice in the courts due to prejudice deliberately fomented by heavily financed secret smears. This is not speculation. This is fact which is silently and secretly recognized but never mentioned, even in papers which profess to be utterly brave. It is a menace to the American standard and

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Treatment for Apoplexy Is Complete Rest, Nursing

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

A stroke of apoplexy means that there has been some bleeding from one of the blood vessels in the brain or that a clot has developed in one of the arteries or veins of the brain. Either one causes damage to the delicate brain tissues which that particular blood vessel supplies with blood and interferes with the functions which are controlled by the injured part of the brain.

Since both hemorrhage and a clot usually occur rapidly, the paralysis and interference with bodily functions is likely to be sudden. Also, because the nerves running from the brain to the muscles cross from one side to the other, a paralysis of the right side of the body means generally that the damage has occurred on the left side of the brain.

When the area injured is large, unconsciousness usually comes on. The breathing becomes noisy. The muscles on one side of the body—the one opposite to the side of the brain affected—become paralyzed. Feeling or sensation is not affected.

Overlook Complaints
It is not possible by medical or surgical means to get at the brain and to remove the clot or to stop the bleeding. Watchful waiting is therefore about the only treatment which can be used, immediately. Complete rest is, of course, essential. Good nursing care is important.

After a while carefully chosen exercises or massage may help. The paralysis, however, comes from the injury to the brain and is not in the muscles themselves and therefore one cannot expect too much from treatment. The victims of a stroke frequently suffer from a change in personality. Irritability and excessive complaining are frequent. This can be annoying to family and friends who think it is unnecessary and unjust. It happens so often, however, that it should be considered as a result of the "stroke" itself and should be excused and accepted as well as possible.

The amount of recovery from a stroke depends on the original size of the hemorrhage or clot and what part of the brain is hit. Recovery starts early. The amount of paralysis present is usually greatest at the beginning and tends to become less as time goes on. Some people who have had an extensive paralysis recover almost entirely.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

Sublette Church Scene Of Malach-Fruin Vows

Our lady of Perpetual Help church at Sublette was the setting for the ceremony that united in marriage Claudia Malach, daughter of the John W. Malach's of Sublette, and Thomas Fruin Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fruin, Grand Detour.

The Rev. Lemman celebrated the nuptial Mass. Thomas Malach, brother of the bride, was one of the altar boys.

Miss Ivo, Hinkel, as soloist of the Sublette choir, sang "Oh Lord I Am Not Worthy" and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was in a beautiful gown of sculptured, caneligh satin fashioned with a demure neckline bodice and a graceful skirt with a lace applique panel which swept into a full chapel train. Her finger-tip veil was trimmed in lace. Her semi-colonial bouquet was of white roses, stephanotis and ivy. She wore a rhinestone necklace, gift of the groom.

Sisters Attend Bride
The three sisters of the bride were her attendants. Mrs. R. Bert Dillenbury, Aurora, matron-of-honor wore a gown of yellow embroidered organza styled with a high collar and full skirt of ankle length. She carried a semi-colonial bouquet of starlight carnations. The bridesmaid, Frances Malach, wore a lime green gown exactly like that of the matron-of-honor. She carried a semi-colonial bouquet of golden wonder carnations. The junior bridesmaid, Marcella Malach, wore a rose gown identical to her sisters. She carried perलगonium carnations. The attendants all wore gold bracelets, gifts of the bride.

Charles Abbott, Oregon, served as best man. James Malach, brother of the bride, and Robert Dillenbury, brother-in-law of the bride, were ushers.

The bride's mother was attired in a gown of green linen with lace inserts for her daughter's wedding. Her accessories were beige and she wore a corsage of charm carnations.

Rose Crepe Gown
Mrs. Fruin watched her son's wedding in a gown of rose crepe. She wore a large picture hat of white and lace mits. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mrs. Gehant, grandmother of the bride, wore a brown and white print with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony for 150 friends and relatives. Miss Julie Amell, Dixon, was in charge of the bride's book.

The beautiful July day made it possible to have the wedding dinner served country style on the lawn which for seventy years has been the scene of many happy gatherings of the Malach family. During the day, Mrs. A. L. Carroll, Logansport, and Mrs. Etta Jean-blanc, West Brooklyn, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because."

When the happy couple left on their wedding trip to Wisconsin, Claudia was wearing a navy blue sheer with a hat of natural straw and yellow carnation corsage.

Mt. St. Clare Graduate
The bride is a graduate of Mt. St. Clare and has been employed at the Illinois Northern Utility Company for the last four years.

The groom is a graduate of Oregon high school and works with his father in the contracting business.

The bride and groom will be at home Aug. 1 in Grand Detour.

TO LEAVE FOR HOME
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hintz left July 5 for New York by air. After spending a week with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and B. H. Morris on Long Island, they visited Jones beach, Radio City Music Hall and the Statue of Liberty.

Then they went up the Hudson river to Albany to visit their grandson. Then to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, returning to Dixon by air.

They will leave soon for their home in San Diego. He is one of the oldest of Dixon residents, although he is now living in California.

Franklin Grove Girl Reports to Air Force Base

Pvt. Carol Irene Wasson

Pvt. Carol Irene Wasson, 20, Franklin Grove, has reported to Lackland Air Force base, "the Gateway to the Air Force," to begin an indoctrination course at the Women of the Air Force training center.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wasson, Franklin Grove.

Lackland, near San Antonio, is the world's largest air base, center of air force training for men and women, indoctrination station for prior service personnel and home of the air force's officer candidate school.

Paris Exhibits 'Pillbox' Hats

Paris, July 21—(AP)—Pillbox and cone shaped hats with tremendous pussy cat bows of taffeta or velvet ribbon attached to the back of them were featured in a tall hat show given here today by Maud Et Naro.

The ribbon bows are joined to swatched hatbands and are stiffened to stick out just as though a high wind is blowing them backwards.

The pillbox shape stands about three inches high and sits dead straight on the head so that most of the back hair is revealed.

Many are designed after playing card suits—diamonds, hearts, clubs and spades. One diamond-shaped number in crimson panne, was edged with black braid and had a foot high black vulture feather sticking straight up out of the crown.

The cone-shaped affairs are similar to clown hats and sit deep on the head, just skirting the hairline in front.

Brilliant color combinations are used. An olive green felt had a bow of hectic orange taffeta, another was made entirely of orange breast feathers. One in black tulle was covered with white agnettes which were sprinkled with gold sequins.

A few cocktail numbers were or heavily embroidered satin and banded with mink or white ermine.

Shorter Skirt Lengths Call Attention to Hose

New York—(NEA)—The new shorter skirt lengths, seen in summer fashions, are calling attention to the leggy look. This, in turn, means that a greater importance is placed on hosiery. Stocking interest is always stressed when hemlines rise.

One of the new stocking designs replaces the usual solid heel reinforcement with delicate zebra stripes (right) for a slenderizing effect. Stripes are matched up with stocking seams in wire, black, navy or brown and used against light or burnished hosiery shades.

Another design, called totogature (left), frames the ankle neatly and calls attention to trim legs and non-messy, if you remember through a black line around the reinforcement. It's intended to water and another of clean rinse at spectator sports or during general afternoon wear.

The crystal clear sandal stocking, entirely without foot reinforcement, is the best companion for the nude sandal and for the short evening dress. It creates sheer illusion while protecting the feet from dust.

Some Breast Cancers Cured Through Salve, Doctors Told

Paris July 21—(AP)—A potent new salve has made some breast cancers disappear, Dr. Hanes Lettre of Heidelberg, Germany, reported today.
The salve is a new chemical, a king of the drug colchicine, made from the autumn crocus plant. The new cousin of the colchicine is 10 times more potent. Lettre told the fifth international cancer research congress which closes today.
Some breast cancers treated with the new drug disappeared and had not returned three years later, Dr. Lettre said. But because they still might return, they could not be considered cured, he added.

Retreat from South Capital Orderly, Claim

had failed aggressively to follow up their conquest of Taejon Friday.

General MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters did not issue its usual communiqué on the Korean fighting, saying, "there has been no change in the situation."

Field accounts said the 24th's fighting commander, Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, had been unreported in the battle zone for 24 hours.

In the last headquarters communiqué issued Friday afternoon, the 24th division was described as stalling the Communist advance after the fall early Friday of the devastated rail and highway junction city of Taejon.

Chinese Nationalists Annoyed by Truman's Formosa Neutrality

Taipei, Formosa, July 21—(AP)—An official newspaper of the Chinese Nationalists said today President Truman's neutralization of Formosa "annoys us."

"Everyone should realize that Soviet Russia will attack Democratic countries of the world as soon as she has enough strength to do so," said Hsin Sheng Pao, mouthpiece of the provincial government.

Superior numbers of Communist tanks, infantrymen and guerrillas won blazing Taejon after two days of fierce and costly attack.

But that victory cost them at least 12 tanks—all knocked out by the GIs' new 3.5 inch rocket launcher—and others damaged.

The Far East Air Forces, in a communiqué, indicated new tanks may require some time getting to the Taejon area. It said a 500-ton B29 bombing of Seoul Sunday had damaged rail yards and lines so heavily as to "prevent rail movements to the southern battle lines for some time."

Balancing this withdrawal, allied naval guns destroyed the Communist communications center of Yongdok on the east coast, 25 miles north of the beachhead established Wednesday by the First Cavalry division (mechanized).

Progress of the First Cavalry and the Twenty-Fifth Infantry divisions—which landed earlier this week—was not reported by General MacArthur's communiqué.

General MacArthur said the loss of Taejon has "no special significance" from the military point of view. Advanced American headquarters and the provisional government of South Korea had moved from the city several days ago.

The new U. S. front on higher ground is a better location for fighting a delaying action, MacArthur said in a communiqué.

Freeze Men in Armed Forces For One Year

Washington, July 21—(AP)—Senate and house armed services committees voted today to lift all limits on the size of the armed forces. Another congressional group recommended an immediate hike in taxes.

The armed services committees also approved legislation to "freeze" in service for another year the enlisted men now in the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The steps were the first formal moves by the lawmakers toward a big build-up of fighting strength and a tightening up of the home front to meet Communist blows in Korea and possibly elsewhere.

At the White House, President Truman reviewed the situation with his cabinet. Vice President Barkley told reporters afterward that it was a "routine" meeting—a statement implying there were no major new proposals or decisions.

Congressional leaders ticketed the bills upping the armed forces for floor action next week.

With those measures out of the way, the legislators will come to grips with the question of economic controls.

Sharply rising prices already have brought some demand in and out of congress for controls.

By all signs, tax increases definitely are in prospect. Lawmakers are demanding action to take the profits out of the Korean war.

The recommendation for a tax hike came from the senate-house economic committee. It took the unanimous stand that the country should try to put its Korean war costs on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Youth, 19, Learns the Hard Way About Thirsty Blondes

Chicago, July 21—(AP)—A 19-year-old New Jersey youth who came to Chicago with $4,200 two weeks ago was in jail and broke today and blamed his financial condition on hungry, thirsty blondes.

"Everywhere I went," said Robert E. Dernbach, Jr., of North Bergen, N. J., "I ran into a blonde."

The blondes wanted champagne and the champagne called for steak dinners."

Dernbach was in boys club yesterday on a charge of defrauding an innkeeper—a $73 bill at the Morrison hotel. A hearing was set for July 26.

Police said Dernbach, an apprentice steamfitter, related he had withdrawn $3,000 from his bank account, took his father's car—which he later sold for $1,200—and came to Chicago. Police said New Jersey police want Dernbach on a charge of theft of the car.

Many of the night club bartenders believed the juvenile man about town was a millionaire.

"Oh, those blondes," young Dernbach sighed. "I told 'em I was a big oil man from the west. I told 'em I owned lots of dairy farms. They just kept on eating and drinking."

Hoarders Will Learn Efforts Are for Nought

Supplies of fresh, canned and frozen fruits are expected to be about 11 per cent less than last year and about 4 per cent below average, reflecting spring freeze damage. The peach supply is likely to be down about a fourth from last year.

As a consequence, somewhat higher prices are anticipated for fruits.

So-Why Hoard?

Prospects point toward abundant supplies of fresh and processed vegetables, including potatoes, sweet potatoes, dry beans and peas. Record-large stocks have been depressing farm prices of dry beans.

The report undoubtedly will paint a favorable picture of supplies of food fats and oils.

Butter production is running far ahead of consumer demand. As a consequence surplus stocks of more than 185,000,000 pounds have been accumulated by the government under farm prices support programs.

Reds Polish Off Brooklyn In Doubleheader, 3-1, 6-2

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Shades of 1914, Can Luke Sewell perform a miracle at Cincinnati? The sizzling Reds polished off the ambitious Brooks last night in both ends of a twilight-night doubleheader, 3-1 and 6-2. That made it eight out of 11 over the Dodgers this season and 19 wins in their last 25 starts. Or, if you prefer, 21 of 29.

Kenny Raffensberger's cunning control stuff silenced the Brooks in the opener despite Don Newcombe's five-hitter. Then Ewell (The Whip) Blackwell struck out nine in a sizzling night performance. Neither Cincy pitcher walked a man.

As a result, the Dodgers are three full games back of St. Louis and Cincy is only a half-game back of the sixth place New York Giants.

While Cincinnati lowered the boom on Brooklyn, the New York Giants bounced back to another St. Louis, 13-3. The loss didn't cost the Cardinals the lead but narrowed their advantage over Boston and Philadelphia to a single game.

The rained-out Braves didn't have a chance to gain and the Phillies missed their opportunity, bowing to Pittsburgh, 10-8, in a slugfest that lasted almost three hours. Ted Beard, Gus Bell and Danny O'Connell each had three hits in the 16-hit attack.

Despite homers by Dick Sisler, Granny Hamner and Del Ennis, Pittsburgh struggled home to win for reliever Murry Dickson. Ralph Kiner's 27th homer off Russ Meyer in the eighth helped nail it down.

Leo Durocher's Giants really got revenge for the 18-4 and 10-3 beatings on Wednesday as they piled it up against the Cardinals with an eight-run third inning. Dave Koslo, a non-winner since June 28, copped his ninth with a nine-hitter. Five double plays and 16 Giant hits, including three by Don Mueller, made it easy.

Everybody closed in on the Detroit Tigers yesterday when they lost to Boston, 6-5, in 11 innings. The runnerup New York Yankees not scheduled to play, gained a half game. Cleveland and Boston each picked up a full game.

Sam Zoldak and Bob Kennedy teamed up on Philadelphia for Cleveland's 3-2 victory in 11 innings. As a result the Tribe is only 4 1/2 games back of Detroit.

Rain postponed the scheduled night game between Chicago and Washington. It also washed out the daytime game in the National between Boston and Chicago.

In the early days of Quebec, the beaver was considered "fish" on Fridays. This allowance was made so that trappers could eat the animal without sin, on that day, because of the scarcity of food in the severe winters.

Sullivan Leads Field in Midwest Meet

Dixon Golfer Totals 149 on Chicago Links

Chicago, July 21.—(AP)—Tom Sullivan, University of Miami golf captain from Dixon, Ill., held the lead at the half-way mark of the 72-hole medal play Midwest Amateur tourney today with 149.

Sullivan posted a 78 over the soggy Waveland course yesterday to go with Wednesday's opening 71.

Leader with the only sub-par card of Wednesday's opening set, Sullivan like the rest of the field, found the biting cross wind off the lake, joined with intermittent showers, a real handicap. Sullivan settled for a pair of 39s and a 78.

A stroke back was Eddie Kletche, the golfing fireman from St. Andrews, who added a 77 to his Wednesday 73 for a 150. Also in the running was Nello Campagna, the Baltimore veteran, who had a 73-75-151.

Moving up was Jack Dwan, former Loyola university basketball star, off of a pair of 76's and a 152. Archie Tourlakes was in with a 153.

Strong Stranger
Among the newcomers was Mark McCormack, William and Mary student from Asheville, N. C. Without having seen the course before, McCormack fired a 79 in Wednesday's rains, then turned around yesterday and posted the best medal card of the day, a 75. His 151 is matched by George Dayantis, one-time Illini star from Edgebrook, and George Koyama of Midwest.

Brooks Eliminated
A score of 164 sufficed to gain admission to the third round. Among those who missed out was Alex Brooks of Mid-City, last year's match play winner, who had 165. Scores:

K.C. Gambling Has Been Down Since Murders

Kansas City, July 21—(AP)—Did the Binaggio-Gargotta gangland slayings put the brakes on big-time gambling in Kansas City? Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) head of the senate crime investigating committee, says testimony taken during a two-day hearing here shows gambling operations are pretty well closed down now. But before the slayings last April 5 gambling operations were on a larger scale than in St. Louis, he added.

Charles Binaggio, northside political leader and gambling figure, and Charles Gargotta, his henchman, were shot to death in their Democratic headquarters. Their slayings have not been solved.

The senate committee wound up its closed door hearings yesterday. Former associate of Binaggio and Gargotta were among those questioned.

"Before the murders there seems to have been a general absence of strong law enforcement in the city," and apparently it was somewhat worse in the country outside the city," Kefauver said.

He said no information of value had been developed on the slayings.

Yesterday the committee questioned James Pendergast, a Democratic faction leader and friend of President Truman. Pendergast is a nephew of the late Kansas City political boss, Tom Pendergast.

Pendergast later told reporters he was not quizzed on gambling.

He said he told the committee in response to a question that he had no idea who killed Binaggio and Gargotta. He also said he was asked about the theft of ballots from the courthouse in 1947 during a vote fraud investigation and that he told the committee he had no idea who committed the theft.
